"NEVER SCRATCHED A TICKET"

Just now it is not infrequent that the expression: "I never scratched a ticket" may be heard either on the stump, or read in some candidates circular. This expression is made use of in order to sum up in a nut-shell one's party loyalty. Whatever may be the value of such a person as this to his country is a problem not susceptible of arithmetical solution, but one for algebra where minus quantities are permissible.

It is needless to philosophise, or to enter into any extensive analysis of this expression to make its meaning clear. In short it means this: "It makes no difference what kind of a reprobate I find on my ticket; it makes no difference how unworthy he is; it makes no difference how much fraud, whiskey and even ballot-box thievery it took to get his name on my ticket, I have not in the past and will not in the future refuse to vote for him. In fact I will vote for a 'yaller dog' if he is on my ticket."

Then again, it is not uncommon to hear an expression like this: "We are sure going to elect Bryan this time." All right, dear reader, for the sake terests of the people will be entirely over-looked so long as these conditions prevail. Each faction knows beyond the peradventure of a doubt (taking their own words for it) that the other fellow is a rascal, boodler and a scoundrel; but, when the primary is over, notwithstanding all kinds of fraud were used, we are confronted with the fellow who "never scratched a ticket" and the usual majorities are rolled up in September.

But there is a ray of hope that these conditions will not always exist. Even here in Carroll County the limit has been reached and brave, patriotic Democrats who believe that their party owe something to the voter as well as the voter to the party, have scratched their ticket and given their support to such men as John I. Worthington, Oscar Grim and A. J. Russell.

The man who never scratched his ticket has but little to his credit in the way of bringing about reforms in his party. The conditions in Arkansas are certainly ripe for the honest, brave, patriotic voter to stop and consider the object and value of the ballot.

Speaking of the present situation in Arkansas, Congressman Brundidge of this state said in Washington last Thursday:

JOHN R. WALSH AGAIN

Denied a New Trial and Given Five Years

Nearly all our people are familiar with the case of the noted millionaire banker, who was convicted of illegal use of the funds of the Chicago National Bank, of which he was president.

Another chapter can now be written. Walsh applied for a new trial and the other day Judge Anderson in the United States District Court denied the same and in his remarks, covering an hour, said some things that Walsh and many other busted bankers will remember as long as they live, at the conclusion of which he denied the new trial and sentenced Walsh to five years in the penitentiary. A portion of Judge Anderson's remarks was as follows:

"In my opinion no reasonable man could hear the evidence in this case and have any doubt that the defendant intended to do the things that are charged against him in the indictment.

"For more than thirty years I have taken part in legal procedure as a lawyer and a judge, and it is my deliberate conviction that a more reckless, utter disregard of law has never been wrong—wrong. Walsh could have avoided all his difficulties by observing three simple things

- 1st. Being honest.
- 2nd. Obeying the law.
- 3rd. By living in Arkansas.

ARKANSAS HISTORICAL DATA WANTED

Mrs. C. F. Ellis has received the following letter, which explains itself:

NEWPORT, ARK., FEB. 16, '08.
MY DEAR MRS. ELLIS:

At the convention of the Arkansas Federation of Women's Clubs in Forrest City last April, I, as President, was ordered to appoint three women from each county to collect historical data and to transmit the same to Prof. J. H. Reynolds, Secretary of the Arkansas Historical Association.

Pursuant to this order I hereby appoint you to act for your county in concert with two other ladies, to be selected by yourself. The kind of matter needed is described as follows:

Locate and describe all extant historical sources, such as old letters, manuscripts, diaries, journals, muster rolls, all kinds of military papers, newspaper files, rare maps, old forts, battlefields, historic houses and homes, graves and portraits of eminent Arkansans, aboriginal remains, Indian boundaries, villages, trails, wars and treaties; books and pamphlets written by Ark-

A Story of a Maid, a Man and a Mine

CHAPTER VIII

Rose Lyndall looked up into Despard's face with a dazed, bewildered expression.

"I simply cannot believe it Harry. It is too good to be true, and James did this for us."

"Yes," rejoined Despard, "he is fine and we can never thank him enough. The deal is closed and part of the land is mine, is ours, sweetheart, and the company to develop the mine will be organized tomorrow. Waldron is generous for I still have a small portion of my little capital left."

"Well," said Rose, "if James Waldron ever before did a really unselfish thing, history has never recorded it. His kindness to us only proves now little we know or can judge even our nearest and dearest. I wonder what you will do to astonish me Harry. Likely as not when the mine begins to pay and your fortune is made, you'll want to break our engagement," and her smiling, lovely face, with its crown of red gold hair gave him a daring little challenge of which he

CLIO W. MILLER . . . . . Acting Editor

JUST two cents a week pays for the Eureka Springs Times.

THIS city has been dominated by Duncan too long. The present financial condition of the city is a heritage of one man sway.

NO mayor or council or candidate can afford to allow the police to carry petitions in the interest of any candidate. Good administration of the affairs of this city will not result when the officers are being prostituted to such purposes.

THE experience of last springs election should be enough to open the eyes of thoughtful citizens. When it is necessary for the police force to be brought into active use in the interest of candidates, then is it time to call a halt and investigate.

THIS paper is unalterably opposed to the machine that now manages and controls this city. The tangled condition of the city revenues is the direct result of the town being dominated by a little ring of politicians who have used the offices of this city to further their own ambitions. It is time for the city to be run on business principles.

IT certainly behooves the tax paying voters of this town to look well to the men whom they elect to office. This city is "You are soon to enter the business world, and you will want the "home principal" applied in all things then. Your home people pay taxes to educate you. They have builded this school house from dollars taken from their own pockets. Be loyal to them.

"The man who will not provide for his own family is worse than an infidel, says the Bible. The people who will not support their own business men, are worse than traitors. Now get your programs printed where you please."

The "home principle" is the golden thread that runs through the great Republican doctrine of protection to home labor. It is the principle that has so abundantly blessed the United States, giving to its laborers, better homes, better clothes, better educations and better food, than any other people on earth. In its workings it favors no section or class, and at the same time supplies the government with money with which to pay expenses.

THE Times-Echo had another wild spasm Friday night because it felt it had been slighted in regard to the public meeting held on the night previous. It goes into glowing self laudation over its importance in the community, and the mighty power it wields in the city. Curb that egotism Giles. There are such things as overdrafts of egotism.

THE CITY ELECTION

THE city election is only a few weeks away, and the tax payers will again have a chance to express their choice for public servants.

Ever keep in mind that the official, no matter how exalted, is after all, only a servant whom the tax payers employ and pay.

The citizen of this town can now say whether they want the city run as a great business should be run, with every employee doing his strict duty and the business bringing in a profit after the expenses are paid, or run at a loss and debts piling up that will eventually end in ruin and humiliation.

In spite of the fact that the city receives $4800 each year from the saloon license alone, it is running behind. The water works, that a few years ago cleared a thousand dollars a year, is now barely paying its way, though having more consumers and better prices than before. What is wrong?

It means the city is not being run on sound business principles.

General Powell Clayton

Last week Eureka Springs had the pleasure and honor of a visit from Gen. Powell Clayton. We delight to think that Gen. Clayton still calls Eureka Springs home, and still hopes and longs to permanently return here. To no one man does Eureka Springs owe so much. To no one man does the state of Arkansas owe more.

Under his administration and by his indomitable will and perseverance, the University of Arkansas was established and likewise that splendid charity, the Institution for the Deaf and Blind.

To his wisdom and the loyal co-operation of the Republican party, the free public school system of the state was installed and put into useful and orderly operation.

Gen. Clayton is one of the few Republicans of the South who for years has been recognized as a man of such wide knowledge and great ability as to make his counsel of value to the National Committee.

The soul of honor, the embodiment of the strictest integrity, a champion of fair play and a square deal, Gen. Clayton has held uninterrupted leadership in the Republican party of the state for thirty years.

During all this time and by recognition of his standing in the state and at Washington, he has dispensed the patronage with such wisdom that no scandal has come upon his party or his own good name.

In his long, strenuous and remarkable career, he has had to

Local News

Digby J. West spent Saturday in the city.

Mrs. C. A. Reed has returned from Lawton, Oklahoma.

General Powell Clayton is in Little Rock, but will return to this city in a few days.

Gus and Walton Morehouse, from Old Mexico, are visiting relatives in the city.

Hon. John H. Hinemon, one of the candidates for governor, was in the city Tuesday.

John Starkey and Tom Barnett were over from the University for a short visit during the past week.

John I. Worthington, Chas. M. Green and G. J. Crump were in the city Sunday visiting General Powell Clayton.

The friends of Mrs. S. W. Marston are very glad to have her with them again, even if for only a short while.

Attorney F. O. Butt made a visit to Green Forest on legal business Thursday and Friday of this week.

Gohlson Popplewell, a former Eureka Springs boy, came in Sunday from Carthage, Mo., on a short visit to his brother.

The friends of Mrs. R. W. McCann are eagerly awaiting her return from Texas, where she recently underwent a severe operation.

Mrs. Clyde West has returned from a pleasant visit to Hot

Born to Mr. T. J. Walker and wife, a baby girl.

Eugene Pendergrass, of Ft. Smith, visited his relatives here Sunday.

Ed Perkins is having a couple of rooms added to his comfortable home on Kansas street.

A number of visiting Elks from adjoining towns came in last night to take part in the election.

Mrs. M. F. Gear entertained nine ministers at dinner Tuesday. The occasion proved to be a veritable love feast mentally, spiritually and physically.

Miss Bessie Hyde, who has been teaching in Missouri, has returned for the summer. She was accompanied by her sister Mrs. Marian Kistler and children.

The wife and little son of Mr. Ed Travis, of the Blocksom & Newton Undertaking Company, came in Sunday and are at present located at the Overstreet cottage.

The Ellis-Rosewater building is receiving a beautiful green front and new awnings, preparatory to the great spring display of those energetic and popular merchants, the Perkins Bros.

The Union revival meetings that are being conducted in the city are doing a vast amount of good. Meetings like these are needed to sharpen the public conscience which is apt to become dulled with the constant contact with worldly things.

J. T. Robertson, cashier of the Farmers' National Bank, the waterworks measured 65 feet and passed through three water bearing stratas, any one of which was more plentiful than the ones struck at similar planes in the other holes. There seems little doubt now that water in abundance has been found. Mr. Bullington and his apparatus have moved to the Elk Ranch where they have more drilling to do.

Elks Elect Officers

One of the most sensational elections took place in the city last night that has been held since last spring's election, and as then, the issue was Duncan and anti-Duncan. The Duncan faction had slated the following men for election to the respective offices: Exalted Ruler, J. F. Bolton; Esteemed Leading Knight, E. Faulkner; Esteemed Loyal Knight, U. G. Kelly; Esteemed Lecturing Knight, R. E. Blair; Secretary, Frank Pickard; Treasurer, Julius Labsap; Representative to grand lodge at Dallas, C. D. James.

The determination to put through the above slate became so great that the affair spread beyond the pale of the lodge and citizens, not members of the order were importuned to use their influence in their behalf, it even being asserted that some of the ladies of the town took a hand in the electioneering process.

The fight waged last night from the beginning of the election, was fast and furious and it was truly a battle of ballots.

W. M. Malone was the candidate for the anti-Duncan eleago it was a social question, when a woman of questionable character was upheld and foisted on a trusting public, and so the fight goes on, but daylight is beginning to dawn and it is only a question of time till the town will be free from this pernicious influence.

Federal Building for Eureka Springs

Congressman Floyd introduced the 13th of this month, a bill in Congress appropriating $50,000 for the purchase of a site and for the construction of a government building at Eureka Springs to be used for a postoffice and other purposes.

Postmaster Rosewater has been requested to furnish certain data in reference to the matter which he is now preparing for the committee on public building and grounds and likewise for the supervising architect of the treasury department. The lease of the present post-office building does not expire until February 1913, but Messrs. Ellis and Rosewater, owners of the building, state that they will cancel the lease at any time the government is ready, should the bill become allowed.

Social News

The Whist club met at the Chautauqua House Monday evening and spent one of their usual delightful times. The honors were won by Mrs. Vincent and H. T. Pendergrass.

The Lady Maccabees gave a dance and card party at the Basin Park hotel on St. Patrick's Eve, March 17th. A most enjoyable time was reported by all present.

Miss Nellie Perkins entertained a few friends Tuesday evening. After an interesting contest, delightful refreshments were served. Those present were Col. and Mrs. Marshall, Prof. and Mrs. Maddox, Dr. and Mrs. C. F. Ellis and Dr. Huntington.

The Shakespeare club met with Miss Millsaps last Friday evening and a most pleasant and profitable time was spent in the study of Julius Caesar. A peculiar coincidence was that the day was the Ides of March, being Friday, the 13th, the day Caesar was stabbed by Brutus.

Mrs. R. E. Blair entertained the Book Club Monday evening. It was an event in honor of St. Patrick's day, but was held on this date so as not to conflict with the Lady Maccabees entertainment. The house was a beautiful symphony in green, rosettes of the color decorating the lace curtains and bringing out the beauty of the chandeliers. The gentlemen all wore green and the ladies green.

The Man About Town

A lovely spring air was in the atmosphere and the hat flowers were ablossoming in the millinere's windows, when we come down the pike, our thoughts idly blowing in the breeze, and met the Man About Town. He had a solemn countenance and a red bandana was loudly doing the duty it was intended to do.

We greeted him respectfully, his looks deserved it, in fact, from his appearance, we didn't believe he'd take any other kind of treatment.

"Sonny," says he, after two or three mournful blows, "this world is a fleetin' show."

"You've got the grip," we said, deep sorrow in our tones.

"No I haint," he said terrible fierce. "The grips got me, body and soul, and I'm goin' to the dogs as fast and furious as women come down to see the Easter hats. I've tuk to drink, sir, yes sir, me as was almost on the pint of gittin' the gift of tongues."

"Almost," says we real soft like."

"Yes sir, almost," says he inflatin his stomach and looking awful proud. "Almost," he said, "I've tuk to drink sonny, and its a sad thing to see a fine man goin' wrong. But with plain lemonade, with spiked lemonade, with hot lemonade, with ginger tea, with a cup of root tea, what's a man to do?"

"I see," said we, real sympathetic like, "but what's we you the grip?"

"Sonny," he said, his voice sounding like the wood of a

Woodmen of the World

From Sovereign Escort H. G. Simrall of this city we learn that the advance figures of the Sovereign Camp Woodmen of the World show 1907 to have been the most progressive year in the history of this organization. The membership on January 1, 1908, was 392,000. On January 1, 1907, it was 330,720. The net gain during the year was 61,280 as compared with 56,128 for 1906. The receipts during the year were $6,944,020.27. The expenditures for death losses were $3,272,789.30; for monuments, $232,753.40; for disability claims, $9,250. The total emergency fund and cash on hand the first of this year was $5,702,013.71. The Sovereign Camp Woodmen of the World is enjoying an extraordinary growth. Its increase in assets is keeping pace with it.

The work continues to prosper in Arkansas. During 1907 more than 6,500 applications were received from that State. Two hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars were paid to widows and orphans last year and seventy-eight new camps were formed, bringing the number of active camps up to nearly 600. The fortune that is coming to us, Rose. You must not mind me."

"And pray don't mind me either," said another voice and James Waldron entered, smiling in quite a paternal fashion. A keen observer might have seen a queer light in his dark eyes if he had looked closely, but the lovers were too embarrassed to be analytical.

"We do mind just the same," replied Rose, "why didn't you knock, or sing, or whistle or something?"

"Well," replied Waldron, seating himself and gazing admiringly at the pair, "a knock on curtains doesn't sound and I've lost my voice so I can neither sing nor whistle. I'm sorry however to have disturbed you, but the fact is, Miss Lyndall, your father desires an interview with your liege lover, so sent me as his emissary. Strange that a piece of ground in Arkansas could work such a change in the heart of man," he said cheerfully to Despard.

The latter arose quickly. "Is he in the library?" he asked nervously.

"Yes," replied Waldron "in his most lamb-like mood."

Despard stooped and kissed Rose square on her charming mouth, completely ignoring Waldron.

"Wish me every kind of luck, sweetheart," he said as he hastily left the room. Joy was in his heart, for if Col. Lyndall know you don't want him in there with you."

"Thank you. Good night," Despard responded and went back to the room where he had left Rose and Waldron.

"The colonel wants you this time Waldron. He says come instantly."

"I wonder if he wants to speak to me on the same subject that he did you," said Waldron gaily, rising to go.

"No I think not," said Despard, regarding Rose tenderly.

"Two's company," came back as Waldron left the room.

Despard took Rose's face in his hands. "Sweetheart," he said, his voice quivering with emotion, "I think we two are going to be the happiest people in all the wide world."

for our water mains. Dr. Floyd made a good talk along the line of the damage done to our resort by the use of the present water, and while he pointed out that the present supply did not produce fevers, he made it plain that we were being damaged seriously by the fact that the vegetable matter in the present supply does ferment and become offensive. Aaron Matthews in a business like address looked at the situation from another view point, acknowledging the importance of good water, and voicing his deep earnestness and hearty good will in the efforts of the League to obtain it, he called attention to the fact that our city was being run into debt

Will Abide by the Present Rates

The Missouri and North Arkansas Railroad has the distinction of being the only trunk line railway in the State that proposes to stand squarely by the present freight and passenger tariffs of the State Railroad Commission. While the Cotton Belt, Iron Mountain, Rock Island, K. C. S. and Frisco railways have been prosecuting all sorts of injunction plans in the Federal courts, declaring the present tariffs confiscatory, etc., etc., the Missouri and North Arkansas has been busy constructing its splendid line through the virgin territory of North Central Arkansas from Seligman, Mo., toward Helena, in the eastern part of this State.

C. D. Whitney of Eureka Springs, traffic manager of the new road, and one of the best known railroad men of the State,

Browne filed a brief signed by attorneys for both parties to the suit, in which they set forth the reasons for urging early action, and in which they say:

"Said parties respectfully show to the court that there are about 500 banks in the state of Oklahoma subject to the operation of the law, and that all of their depositors and the public generally in the State of Oklahoma are vitally interested in the said case.

"Said parties further respectfully show to the court that one of the candidates for president of the United States is now running on a platform advocating a law similar to that passed by the Legislature of the State of Oklahoma, and that the policy of bank guaranty of deposits is one which has become of interest not only to the people of Oklahoma, but to the people of other states."

The Shakespeare Club

The first meeting of the Shakespeare Club for the fall and winter was held on Saturday night at the beautiful new home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Perkins. The earnestness of the membership was attested by the large number in attendance all of whom were greeted with a cordial welcome by the kindly host and hostess and their charming daughters.

Mrs. Margaret Millsaps, President of the club, presided with a grace, dignity and precision that betokened a love of the work and a desire that the club accomplish something more than

The Club's first meeting was a marked success in every respect. Its auspicious "first night" is prophetic of a profitable, pleasurable and interesting year in the realm of an unknown world, revealed as only the master poet of the ages knew how.

Echoes From the Street

"I mean to come here and live," said a man from Indiana who is improving rapidly with a supposedly incurable disease. "I have enough to live on comfortably and even if I don't get well, I now know that this wonderful water and splendid air will prolong my life." Such were the words of a man who had been condemned to die inside of sixty days. He now laughs at the doctors and confidently expects to live many years. The doctors were honest in their advice and should not be blamed. They are simply ignorant of the effects of the waters of Eureka Springs.

What should be done is to inaugurate a crusade of education and get the doctors to know what can be done here with stomach, liver, kidney and bladder troubles.

A good story is told on a certain couple in the city who, ments in this resort.

Mrs. Kate Utiger has purchased lots on Vaughn Street, and is today breaking the ground for the foundation of a nice home. Mr. G. W. Smelser has the contract for the carpenter work.

The people who have been accustomed to crossing the foot bridge that is now condemned, find Pickard's store a very convenient way to get to and from the springs. Mr. Pickard takes it good naturally though.

Elder R. A. Staley, of Harrison, will preach at the Christian Church Sunday, October 18th, at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Come out and hear him.
Elder Staley is one of the leading young ministers of Arkansas.

G. W. Huffman, of Farmer City, Ill., a brother-in-law of our townsman, O.
H. Orendorff, was an arrival today.
He has recently sold his farm in Illinois, and is paying his relatives here a visit before seeking a new location.

Mr. Johnson Farris, who lives on White River west of here came to town today with a load of late cantelopes and watermelons. The cold and frosts had not hurt these products by reason of the lay of the ground and the tall grass.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Miller, father and mother of the editor, left on the early train this morning to pay a visit to their oldest son, G. C. Miller, of Loplin, Mo. The editor and family will be to the old home within the next days.

ho ride. A very neat pas-been arranged for the occasion.

Mrs. Carry A. Nation passed through the city on the noon train today, enroute for Alpena, where she will visit her brother, and the farm she has recently purchased in that vicinity. She stopped long enough to get a dinner at Oscar Johnson's lunch room, and lecture some cigarette flends who happened to be about the depot. She promised to stop on her return trip and visit the asloons of Eureka Springs.

A special meeting of Basin Spring Lodge No. 386 was held in Masonic Temple Wednesday evening, October 14th, for the purpose of conferring the First degree of Masonry on Louis Roach. Quite a number of the membership were present to witness the initiation and a general good time was had.

An excellent chili parlor has been installed in the Parker Candy Kitchen under the efficient management of Mrs. Edwin W. Travis. Gentlemen and their ladies, young and old are cordially invited to visit the chili parlor each evening between the hours of 6:30 to 10:30 p.m. Those who have tasted the chili pronounce it fine.

The little seven year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.
T. Rhie died after a few days illness. The Times extends sympathy to the hereaved father and mother.

There will be a regular meeting of Eureka Chapter No. 82, R. A. M. this evening at Masonic Hall at 7:30 p. m. All members are requested to be present as there will be business of importance,

s, voice lessons,
aphy, Typewriting, Book-keeping, and Commercial Law will be taught at Crescent College. See Prof.
Maddox.

Mrs. N. J. Todd and Louise Haag leave this afternoon for their home in Neodesha, Kansas, after several month's stay in our city.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Murrill have just returned from a two week's pleasant visit with Mrs.
Murrill's parents, Mr. and Mrs.
J. W. McInowsh of Sparks, Oklahoma.

Mrs. Jennie Looney, the hustling representative of the Chas. A. Stevens Dry Goods Co., of Chicago, is enjoying a thriving business. In the short time that Mrs. Loovey has been employed by this popular house she has secured over two thousand dollars worth of orders.
We will wager that there is not a gentleman traveling representative of any dry goods house who makes this territory, will compare records with our Mrs.
Looney. She is one of the most fashionable dress makers that ever came to this city. Since she has made her home in Eureka Springs she has paid out in salaries to the deserving women of this city over $12000, as well as giving them a splendid business training as professional dressmakers.
